

DEMOCRATS MEET TO SELECT CITY FOR CONVENTION

Listened To A Deluge Of Oratory During Dinner Last Eve

Washington, Jan. 9.—(UP)—The Democratic National Committee today selected Chicago for its 1932 convention city.

In a spirited fight with Kansas City and San Francisco, the Illinois city won on the first ballot.

With 55 votes needed for a majority, Thomas E. Manley of the Philippine Islands cast the 55th and deciding vote.

At that time Kansas City had 19, San Francisco 19 and Atlantic City 5.

Washington, Jan. 9.—(AP)—Atlantic City and Chicago vied to get the Democratic national convention today with bids of $200,000 each, and a vote by the national committee was due after a luncheon recess.

Offers of $150,000 were made by representatives of Kansas City and San Francisco. John J. Raskob, the chairman asked the committeemen to vote the convention to the highest bidder.

Edward N. Hurley entered the bid of Chicago, saying it was within a night's ride of 62 per cent of the delegates to the convention. He outlined the facilities of the Windy City.

The Chicago Daily News would provide a television broadcast of the convention, Hurley said, and made a flat offer of $150,000 for the convention expenses. This amount, however, was raised to $200,000 when Atlantic City entered its bid at that figure.

Mrs. Kellogg Fairbanks said the 1932 World's Fair buildings would be finished for the edification of the delegates.

Mayor Cermak Cheered

Mayor A. J. Cermak added his voice to Hurley's in urging the acceptance of Chicago's bid.

He was given a big hand when he walked to the speaker's stand.

Melvin A. Traylor, Chicago banker mentioned as a possible Democratic nominee, followed Cermak.

He expressed his belief that the offer of Chicago was the "best one made."

Senator J. Hamilton Lewis was accorded a short demonstration as he came forward to urge Chicago's big claim. He is an Illinois Democrat.

"Let's turn all this money they are talking about over to the committee and then vote on the merits of the different cities," Lewis said.

Chairman Raskob applauded vigorously as the crowd laughed.

Senator Hawes, Democrat, Mo., presented the invitation of Kansas City, and Frank Hague that of Atlantic City.

Raskob outlined a plan for party finance calling for raising $1,500,000. This would wipe out the deficit in the treasury and leave $500,000 for "a flying start for the 1932 campaign," he said.

Washington, Jan. 9.—(AP)—The Democratic National Committee today turned to the onerous business affairs of the party fresh from a deluge of Jackson Day dinner oratory which sounded a militant war cry for the 1932 campaign.

Harmony was the keynote of the session, called primarily to select a city for the 1932 convention. Kansas City, San Francisco, Chicago, and Atlantic City were bidding for the privilege of entertaining the party delegates.

The troublesome question of prohibition, which nearly wrecked the meeting of the committee in March, was headed for convention consideration without committee action.

The predominant political development from the Jackson Day dinner of last night was the definite manner in which former Governor James M. Cox of Ohio, and John W. Davis took themselves out of consideration for the 1932 nomination and the fact that former Governor Alfred E. Smith of New York, did not.

These three former standard bearers of the party were the speakers at the dinner.

Smith Favors Bonds

Smith went further and laid out a plan for the relief of unemployment.

He advocated a great governmental bond issue sold, as were Liberty bonds direct to the people and the use of the money for permanent public improvements needed in the operation of the government.

Cox and Smith assailed prohibition. Cox his voice pitched high, called on southern Democrats to "send back to their pulpits political ecologists so that the people may know the truth about prohibition."

His play was applauded. Smith, with arms extended, asked the question, "what about prohibition?" that he answered:

"The country is spending annually $100,000,000 in a senseless, useless, and fruitless attempt to enforce prohibition."

Some Oddities In Wire News Today From Various Parts

SAKE ENJOYED X-MAS

Escanaba, Mich., Jan. 9.—(AP)—Arthur Starr found a 16-inch rattlesnake coiled about the trunk of a Christmas tree which he was taking down in his home here yesterday.

He said it apparently had been in the tree when he set it up before Christmas and remained quiescent until disturbed while the tree was being removed.

FRIGHTENED SHERIFF

Peoria, Ill., Jan. 9.—(UP)—Sheriff Frank W. Lichtweiss took a suspicious sounding package, believed to contain a bomb, to the river front today and drilled it with shotgun fire. No detonation occurred.

Postal authorities had been alarmed when they heard the parcel emitted steady ticking such as might emerge from a time bomb.

When the sheriff and his force examined what was left of the riddled package they found inside an alarm clock.

Los Angeles, Jan. 9.—(UP)—A sadder but wiser policeman today gave up his search for "this guy Aristophanes."

The search was instituted after police raided a presentation of the 2300-year-old drama "Lysistrata" and arrested 53 performers on charges of giving an indecent performance.

After the cast had been booked at police court, a member of the raiding squad was sent off to find the author, if possible, and take him into custody. A fruitless hunt ensued and finally the officer was told the Greek playwright, Aristophanes, had been dead these many years.

Meanwhile producers of the play obtained an injunction restraining police from further interference with the show.

FINALLY ACCEPTED

Chicago, Jan. 9.—(AP)—It took a lot of argument but Mrs. G. Hazel Bell finally agreed to accept a little alimony from her husband.

She didn't give in, however, until a judge and a lawyer combined efforts to convince her that she should take the money.

Judge Joseph Sabath agreed she should have a divorce decree and the custody of her son, Don, Jr., and then he asked about money.

"Your honor," said W. W. O'Brien, her lawyer, "I've argued with my client, but she declares she won't have any alimony. She says her husband is a struggling artist while she has plenty of money to support herself and her child. You'd better speak to her judge."

"In law," began the court, "the parent is not allowed to waive the right of the child to support money. You must take it."

Mrs. Bell finally agreed to accept $250 a week.

"GUN NEST" EXPLAINED

Chicago, Jan. 9.—(UP)—That sensational "machine gun nest" raid made by 100 policemen the other night turned out today to be a lot of pinocchio.

The officers had stormed a Gold Coast apartment on reports a "death trap" had been set up. They reported they discovered evidence that a crew of machine-gunners had left only a few hours before.

Today a group of shamefaced and jobless plasterers applied to police.

"We've been using that apartment to play pinocchio in," they said, "that's what accounted for all the cigarette stubs. Those marks on the table that you thought were from a machine gun tripod were made by a vice one of the boys set up to fix his tools."

The men begged police not to reveal their names because their wives thought they were out looking for work. They only brought the matter up, they said, because they wanted to get back their tools, confiscated by police in the raid.

Basketball League Meets Monday Eve

Play will be suspended Monday evening in the Industrial Basketball League at the Moose Hall, while a meeting will be held at 7:30 to organize the league for the second round of the schedule. Representatives from surrounding towns have been invited to the meeting. It is planned to organize a six team league with three teams from Dixon and an equal number from other towns. By this plan it is expected that a stronger organization will participate in the second half of the schedule and a greater interest will be shown.

DAWES TO LEAVE SERVICE SOON HE TELLS REPORTERS

To Return To Banking And Chicago's Big Worlds Fair

Chicago, Jan. 9.—(UP)—Any talk about Ambassador Charles G. Dawes, as a candidate for President is "nonsense," the Ambassador declared emphatically today upon his return to Chicago.

Dawes yesterday announced that he would resign as Ambassador to Great Britain.

"I am coming back home to go to work like every good American should," he added.

Washington, Jan. 9.—(AP)—Charles G. Dawes left politically after Washington speculating furiously today over a sudden announcement of retirement as Ambassador to Great Britain.

The simple and unexpected statement of the former Vice President that he was going back soon to run his bank at Chicago startled political leaders and close friends here, who are ever mindful of the approaching presidential campaign.

Dawes left his announcement here, to be given out some time after his departure for Chicago last night, in the surprise manner so characteristic of the ex-Army General and Republican leader.

He said he was going ahead as chairman of the American delegation to the forthcoming Geneva arms conference but he would only stay there until the "general work which our government has in mind for me" is completed. He would not remain, he said, to complete technical details.

No Mention of Chief.

There was no mention of President Hoover in the statement, and despite the declaration that he was looking forward "to life as a private citizen of Chicago," Republicans in the capital and Democrats—pondered the idea that the door was open to him so far as the 1932 presidential campaign is concerned.

Against this political view of many was the thought by others close to Dawes that he really has intended coming back to his bank for more than a year. They also point out he is vitally interested in the approaching election to be staged by Chicago—the Century of Progress Exposition.

With it all was the constant reminder that Dawes is a prominent Republican and was viewed as a potential presidential candidate in 1928 when his close friend and political associate, Frank O. Lowden of Illinois, was a candidate against Herbert Hoover for the nomination.

Leaders Surprised.

White House officials took Dawes' new almost without comment, but expressions of surprise came from high State Department officers and Republican leaders.

The man to whom a diplomat's job was "easy on the brain but hell on the feet" made this announcement of his intentions.

"After I have completed the general work which our government has in mind for me at Geneva as chairman of the American delegation, I do not expect to remain for the technical work which will be taken up conjointly with the disarmament experts."

"I shall then resign as Ambassador to Great Britain and return to Chicago where I will take up my old work as a banker and become Chairman of the Board of the Central Republic Bank & Trust Company. After a long absence, in official positions, I am looking forward to the renewal of my old associations and to life as a private citizen of Chicago."

Executives Of W. U. Get Five-Day Week

New York, Jan. 9.—(UP)—The five day week was adopted officially today by the Western Union Telegraph Company for executive headquarters, divisional headquarters offices and all district superintendents' offices.

The short week, decided upon with the approval of the employees, is equivalent to an 8-1-3 per cent salary reduction, the Western Union announced.

The five day week and its reduction in salary will not apply to employees who actually handle messages and who constitute the majority of the Western Union employees.

Negro Killer Under Death Edict Appeals

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 9.—(AP)—The appeal of Elwood Rose, Negro, from the judgment of the St. Clair county Circuit court sentencing him to death for the killing of Elbert P. Mankin, near East St. Louis, in a hold-up last August, was filed in the Supreme Court today.

Rose was tried jointly with C. D. Eckford, another Negro, for the crimes. Eckford denied being present at the hold-up but was sentenced to 99 years imprisonment.

The condemned man bases his appeal on the fact that he was denied a separate trial, and that he was denied a continuance to prepare his defense.

WOMAN FELL TO DEATH

Galesburg, Ill., Jan. 9.—(AP)—Mrs. Walter Johnson, 35, died today of a broken back suffered when she plunged from a fourth story window while suffering a nervous breakdown.

BOVINE TESTING IN LEE CO. NOW NEAR ITS END

Work Finished in 17 Townships: Force Of Testers Cut

The bovine tuberculosis eradication program is progressing rapidly in Lee county with a total of 17 townships, including Dixon, in which the tests have been completed. Veterinarians are now at work in three townships which are to be completed as rapidly as possible before invading new territory.

Dr. R. R. Dwyer, County Veterinarian, stated today that the work was proceeding very satisfactorily throughout the county. Some of the force of veterinarians assigned to duty in Lee county to hasten the completion of the test have been removed to other counties and the force here has been somewhat diminished for the time being. Dr. John R. Mudd of Galesburg is at present assisting Dr. Dwyer in the testing program, making his headquarters in Dixon.

But two townships remain in Lee county in which the work has not been started—Hamilton and Bradford. In both instances these townships were permitted to remain untouched until the setting in of the winter weather to freeze the roads which have been in had condition in places. The veterinarians expect that the testing can be hastened to completion in both of these townships. Dr. Dwyer expects to spend Monday in Hamilton township arranging for the testing of several herds next week. The veterinarians have just completed the testing of all herds in South Dixon townships. In some of the townships where the present force of veterinarians have completed their tests, some objectors have been found who will not permit the testing of their herds. It is expected that another force of state veterinarians will be sent into Lee county with the completion of the test in Hamilton and Bradford townships, to complete the tests of the herds owned by the objectors.

Congressman Hull Urged Beer Bill

Washington, Jan. 9.—(AP)—Legislation to aid the farmer, help employment, and restore an industry yielding revenue to the government was urged today before a senate committee.

Representative William E. Hull, Republican, Illinois, and Senator Rihm Bingham, Republican, Connecticut, advocated a four per cent brew.

Bills by Bingham for beer containing four per cent alcohol by volume, and by Senator Bulkley, Democrat, Ohio, for 2.75 per cent by weight, are being considered.

Again friend and foe of prohibition were present at the hearings before the committee headed by Senator Metcalf, Republican, Rhode Island.

Hull is certain four per cent beer is not intoxicating.

"I tried it out upon myself in the Munich brewery in Stockholm," he today told the Senate committee studying beer bills.

"I drank four pints of beer containing 3.2 per cent alcohol by weight on an empty stomach and it did not intoxicate me or produce any ill effects. I might state I am not a drinking man."

Hull explained 3.2 per cent alcohol by weight was the same as four per cent by volume, called for in the Bingham bill before the committee.

Bryan's Estate Is Of Doubtful Value

Los Angeles, Jan. 9.—(AP)—The $668,000 estate left by William Jennings Bryan, once leader of the Democratic party, has dwindled to a condition of "probable value" in five years. This was revealed yesterday in bankruptcy court at a hearing brought by creditors in an effort to force Mrs. Grace Bryan Hargraves, daughter of the orator, into bankruptcy.

William Jennings Bryan, Jr., testified as administrator of his father's estate, that the bulk of Bryan's holdings was in Florida real estate. He said the value was "problematic."

The involuntary bankruptcy action was brought by the American Pipe & Steel Company with a claim for $2,790 growing out of an oil venture. The hearing was at the petitioners' request to determine what assets might be available.

Reed's Aspirations Sounded In Speech

Springfield, Mo., Jan. 9.—(UP)—James A. Reed, former United States Senator, sounded what was believed by several thousand Missouri Democrats to be his aspirations to the Democratic nomination for President.

Making the principal address at the annual Missouri Jackson Day dinner last night, Reed let slip with a single phrase, the signal for cries of "Jim Reed for President," which rolled through the Shrinke Mosque here.

"And now I speak for James A. Reed," he said, introducing a program of remedial measures which he proposed for the nation, a proposal of seven points, the principal of which was a demand for decentralization of government.

Young Tourists Welcome End of Their Thip Here

A group of nine Newark, N. J., young folks, five boys and four girls set out in a sedan several days ago to visit several states on a tour with no particular destination. They pooled their finances and also practiced economy in their tour, sleeping in their car, until they reached Dixon last evening when they were taken to the police station for questioning. It then developed that they had felt the depression and had but 84 cents left to finance their trip.

Cold weather, decreased finances and no outlook for relief, led the tourists instead of the police investigation of many more being employed within a very short time.

President John G. Ralston of the Reynolds Wire Company was very optimistic when interviewed today and said:

"Both of our plants are operating on a 24-hour schedule daily at the present time. We are not, however, manufacturing our product at a peak rate. All of our regular employees are being retained on the pay roll and we are alternating our operations to provide employment for them."

"In our particular line there appears to be a hand-to-mouth buying which is affecting the manufacturer. However, we are operating slowly but substantially and we are confident of an increased volume on a par with last year, which may come slower and later this season."

Making More Shoes

At the Brown Shoe Company plant, the reports were also very encouraging. It was stated at the offices that the production had mounted with the past few days to 1,400 pairs daily and several of the regular shoe makers had returned to their duties. A few of the older help resumed operations during the present week and it was expected that the output would be increased to about 2,000 pair within a very short time. The capacity production of the Dixon plant is about 3,500 pair daily.

Rumors of the resumption of operations at the Medusa Cement Company plant east of the city were current today, but could not be verified at the factory offices. It was stated that 14 employees returned to work last Monday and this force had been slightly increased later in the week for the purpose of overhauling and repairing machinery and equipment. The local office has not been advised from the head offices at Cleveland just when operations will be resumed, but rumors are that the plant may be reopened about the first of next month.

IMPROVEMENT IN SITUATION HERE INDICATED TODAY

Reynolds Wire and Brown Shoe Companies Increase Output

While Dixon generally has been considered less unfortunate than many cities during the depression period, a survey today indicated a material increase in employment here in the very immediate future. Many heads of families have been returned to their employment during the past ten days and there was a prospect of many more being employed within a very short time.

President John G. Ralston of the Reynolds Wire Company was very optimistic when interviewed today and said:

"Both of our plants are operating on a 24-hour schedule daily at the present time. We are not, however, manufacturing our product at a peak rate. All of our regular employees are being retained on the pay roll and we are alternating our operations to provide employment for them."

Young Golfers To Face Stiff Going

Los Angeles, Jan. 9.—(UP)—The cross-roads of Southern California's winter golf trail, the Los Angeles 7,500 open, from which three young golfers started out on the path to fame and fortune, were opened to 132 players today.
The Los Angeles open was inaugurated in 1926 by a dashing young Texan—Harry Cooper—who came unassuming to win the championship. For the next three years Bobby T. Cruikshank and the plodding Scot, MacDonald Smith, dominated first place, with Smith winning in 1928 and 1929.
Then came a youngster from Ohio Denny Shute, to mud his way to a victory in 1930. The third of the young newcomers, Ed Dudley of Wilmington, Del., rose to the height last winter, to capture his first big money shot.
All three continued on to added glory and gold. Youth is represented in the current three-day 72-hole championship over the Hillcrest course by Ray Mangrum, former Texan who has been finishing close to the top this winter, Ralph Guidahl of Detroit and several others.
The list of seasoned players is sufficient, however, to make it a tough struggle for the rising generation.

Two bandits entered the apartment by menacing Mrs. Tillie Goodheart with revolvers. Then they admitted a comrade and, holding the woman prisoner, in a rear room sat down to wait.

As they came home, Goodheart, Dorothy Fraser, a friend; Adelaide Goodheart, a daughter; and Rayfield Goodheart, Los Angeles, father of Harold, were made prisoner.

The bandits robbed each victim, locked them in a room together and left.

Two bandits with similar tactics entered the apartment of Hazel Alexander and made off with jewelry and cash totaling $4800.

SERIOUS RACIAL RIOTING FEAR OF HONOLULU POLICE

building, where he had gone to make his report while on bail in connection with the attack on Mrs. Massie.

"Joe was approached by a white man. An elderly woman was with him and as we came down the steps she pointed to my relative and said 'there's the guy.'

"The man showed Joe a paper bearing a large seal and said 'Come along with me.' Joe said 'All right,' and entered a big sedan parked nearby. The motor of the car was running and another man was at the wheel. They went toward Koko Head.

"The woman did not go in that car. She following in another machine."

First plans were to hold the prisoners at Oahu prison but it was learned that a court order would be necessary. They then were put aboard the Alton, and Captain Workman of the Alton was appointed an officer of the local court and put in charge of the trio.

Air of Tensity.
News of the arrest of the prisoners spread quickly throughout the city and an atmosphere of tensity prevailed.

Great excitement resulted when the whistle of Aloha Tower, which is used to call out the National Guard in event of an emergency, began sounding.

Pedestrians crowding the streets were in a near panic as the screaming continued. Traffic was blocked and telephone offices were swamped with calls. The tower watchman claimed he had been given orders by telephone to blow the whistle.

Governor General Lawrence M. Judd, who recently invoked the stringent territorial law when new riots threatened, issued a statement calling on the populace to remain calm.

"The present situation requires the closest cooperation of all concerned," he said. "The executive forces are exerting every possible effort. The public will be informed from time to time of steps taken."

The prisoners retained Attorney Montgomery Winn when prosecutors began taking statements. Public officials said all three had made short statements, which they claimed conflicted, but that none had given a confession.

Governor Judd today conferred with Rear Admiral Yates Stirling, Jr., commander of the 14th Naval district here, as to measures for preventing a new outbreak.

Start of Trouble.
The development in Hawaiian race troubles which reached into the highest strata of American society began here when a jury trying Kahahawai and four other men charged with attacking Mrs. Massie, disagreed and the men were released.

First reprisal came with the kidnapping of Horace Ida, a Japanese, one of the five defendants. He said his abductors were American sailors.

His kidnapping precipitated a condition here bordering on martial law. According to the police version of Ida's kidnapping, three automobiles loaded with Americans sailors from the Navy Yard picked up Ida on a down town street. They took him three miles up in the mountains.

Ida said his abductors threatened to throw him over a 1000-foot cliff, but relented and made him strip. Then they beat him with heavy belt buckles and pistol butts. He was found semi-conscious and taken to a hospital.

Meanwhile officials were warned that other sailors planned to wreck the Waikiki Park dance hall, near where Mrs. Massie was attacked. Eight riot calls were turned in. Finally a company of Marines was rushed from Pearl Harbor. Reserves were brought from the Navy Yard.

Riot squads patrolled the city for days. However, until Louis Kalkapu, a young native, sentenced to life imprisonment for an attack on a young American woman and member of a prominent California family, escaped from Oahu prison.

The National Guard was called out on patrol duty. Members of the American Legion were deputized. In the midst of the hysteria, Patrolman James Pokipala shot and killed a Filipino seaman, Miguel Barabas, during the search of Kalkapu.

Another prisoner who escaped with him. The turnkey at the prison was dismissed when it was learned that he had been absent without leave on the night when the prisoners escaped. Pokipala was charged with second degree murder.

Two nights ago, an American officer shot a Japanese prowler in his home here. Tension has been extremely high for weeks.

Granville Fortescue and Mrs. Fortescue are listed in the New York social register, along with their four daughters, Mrs. Massie, Miss Rion Fortescue now at Oxford, England, and Misses Helene and Kenyon Fortescue.

Fortescue is a member of the Army and Navy Ardeley, Players and Turf and Field clubs of New York and the Metropolitan Club of Washington. He was married to Grace Hubbard Bell at Washington in 1910.

In Congress Today

Washington, Jan. 9.—(UP)—Congress this afternoon was approaching votes on two important measures.

Senate action on President Hoover's measure to aid business with $2,000,000,000 of government-supported credit was expected to be completed before midnight. The House Banking committee approved the bill and planned to bring it before the House Monday.

The House under rigid rules was concluding debate on the Democratic tariff bill. Democratic leaders were confident the bill would pass, with its provisions stripping the President of his power to adjust tariff rates upon recommendation of the Tariff Commission.

Independent Republicans led by Representative Laguardia, N. Y., fought for an amendment which would virtually give the Tariff Commission power to change rates on its own authority. The amendment provided that changes recommended by the Commission shall become automatically effective if not rejected by Congress within 60 days.

A measure to aid depositors whose funds are tied up in closed banks was introduced in both House and Senate. Sponsors by the Treasury and approved by President Hoover, the bill would set up depositors' relief corporation with $150,000,000.

The corporation would lend money to the receivers of banks which have closed since December 31, 1930.

Representative Hull, Repn., Ill., told the Senate beer committee about his investigation of Swedish beer last summer. He said he was convinced that the four per cent beer advocated by Senator Bingham, Repn., Conn., was not intoxicating.

John R. Mauff urged on behalf of barley growers of eastern Minnesota passage of beer legislation.

In the final Senate hearing on unemployment relief Silas Strawn, chairman of the United States Chamber of Commerce, unqualifiedly opposed direct federal relief appropriations. He submitted a poll of Chambers of Commerce and trade organizations which showed 2,479 against direct federal aid while only 194 thought it desirable.

Four other men were held, charged with conspiracy. The cigars were sold to merchants for $225, each man getting a share, it was said. Britton, meanwhile, had been aiding authorities in solving the case. He will be arraigned before U. S. Commissioner W. R. Moore in Moline.

Motor Fuel Taxes Are Running State

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 9.—(AP)—State tax anticipation warrants totaling $2,500,000 will be issued Monday to provide money for current operating expenses of the state government, state Treasurer Edward J. Barrett said today.

The warrants will not be sold to the public but will be bought by the motor fuel tax fund. With the amount of the anticipation vouchers in possession of the gas tax fund will amount to $5,600,000.

State Treasurer Barrett also said today that he probably will have an announcement of his political intention for the Democratic primary ready next week.

BLUE-BIRDS

TODAY I saw a flock of blue-birds fly
Toward sun-bright lands of fairer, warmer clime.
They made no frantic race with light nor time,
But passed on grass and shrub to glorify
My day. Forget-me-nots in Autumn's sky,
They bloomed, or sweet bluebells that chime
Their tender notes, a rhythmic silver rhyme,
And touch my soul without my knowing why.

Then they took flight, again were Southward bound,
Beneath blue Summer skies they'll carol free,
The future now can bring me what I may—
With longing wistful gaze I search the ground
And find a feather token left for me.
I've had a glimpse of happiness today.

MOANING SAXOPHONE ROUSES CAT'S IRE

Portland, Mich., Jan. 9.—(UP)—Chris Hansen's cat, it seems, finds that the family radio possesses little or no "sax" appeal.
The other evening, Hansen relates he turned on the radio and flooded the room with the moaning of a saxophone.

The cat, lying nearby, arose, glared at the instrument and leaped into the speaker, howling.

Girl Scout News Notes of the Week

Monday:—

Brownie Pack of the North Side have dedicated January, the first month of the new year, to the helping of others. Some are going to call on sick friends, others help at home, and all will endeavor to live up to the Brownie ideal of doing a good turn daily. Charts suggesting kind acts to be performed are distributed. Songs and games concluded the meeting.

Troop V returned with renewed enthusiasm to badge work after a pleasant vacation. The next meeting will be held at the home of Jane Hofer.

The High School Troop continues its activities through the holidays. The troop acted as hostess to fifteen children at a gay Christmas party. Each child received a gift. Competitive games with prizes for each were part of the entertainment. A substantial lunch was served. Members of the troop called on and returned the children as they came from various sections of Dixon. Mrs. Street kindly allowed the troop the use of her home. Mrs. Schmidt assisted in the refreshments. The troop is to be commended for the manner in which it chose to spend the good will and gladness of the Christmas season.

Troop IV spent the hour of meeting in studying badge requirements. Plans were made for an out of doors observation tour. All girls are warned to come warmly dressed.

Wednesday:—
Troop I returned to their scout activities with vigor. The older members were busy mastering the code, while the new recruits were passing tests. There was no social period as the girls were too engrossed in the work at hand.

Troop VI was diversely occupied during their meeting, as the girls are working on individual projects. All reported a most profitable hour with the instruction of Miss Dodd and Miss Blue to aid them.

Thursday:—
Brownie Pack of the South Side brought much enthusiasm and many treasures back to the circle after a happy vacation time. Objects from many lands were shown. This portion of the Brownie hour is a very popular feature. The requirements for awards were discussed and it was found that in a few weeks three of the girls will have the necessary prerequisites for the Golden Bar. Another page of colored pictures was added to each scrap book. These books are progressing admirably and evidence of much artistry.

To Go To Geneva Conference "Thinking Peace"

BY MARGUERITE YOUNG
Washington, Jan. 9.—(AP)—Delegates Mary Emma Woolley maintains the American representatives are going to the general disarmament conference in Geneva "thinking peace" and expecting to accomplish something definite.

The first woman member of a major world conference today smilingly accepted for herself and her masculine colleagues — Secretary Stimson's designation of "practical pacifist." She even defined the phrase.

"That term 'pacifist' has been maligned. I hesitate to explain another's terms, but I suppose a pacifist must be one who would substitute peaceful for beligerent means of settling disputes. A practical pacifist would be one of eminent common sense. One who could adhere to as ideal, yet yield a point rather than lose something already gained."

Pausing amid receiving instructions and pondering disarmament technicalities, the impressive president of Mt. Holyoke college remarked with satisfaction that thus far she has been treated "as a human being instead of as a woman." So an inquiry whether she would be a working delegate drew a quiet assurance.

"Absolutely," she said. "Anything else would be foolish. It is clear, in view of the importance of this conference to the world, there will be no place for self-consciousness."

Whether Dr. Woolley talks publicly in Geneva will depend upon the regulations for all of us. She sees her appointment as a recognition of "increasing tangible political power" of women.

Given Charivari And A "Buggy" Ride

Mr. and Mrs. Donald McCausland who were recently married were victims of a charivari party last evening by about thirty merry friends, who called at their home and with an urgent invitation, had them agree to a "buggy" ride and with the bride and bridegroom in an old fashioned surrey drawn by horses they were given a noisy ride about town. The escort was made up mostly of the employees of the I. N. U. offices where the bride is employed, and in cars they accompanied the "buggy" which was carefully rigged out with sleigh bells, and then with horns blowing and tin pans banging a ride was taken which the McCauslands will never forget, after a merry ride the happy crowd gathered at the McCausland apartment where a tasty lunch was enjoyed and the remainder of the evening spent in dancing. Mrs. McCausland was formerly Miss Alice Koon of Dixon. At a late hour the guests departed after a very pleasant evening, all wishing the bride and groom much happiness.

Diamond Tiaras Find Favor With Capital Women

Washington —(AP)—Diamond tiaras and old-fashioned circular ruffles are much in evidence in smart evening attire at White House social affairs this season.

Mrs. Edward E. Gann, at a recent reception, was gowned in petunia-colored velvet with square neck line in front and circular pieces falling from the shoulders in the back.

Donna Antonietta de Martino, wife of the Italian ambassador, wore white and silver brocade with a scarf of ice-blue tulle around her throat and a tiara of blue and white diamonds on her head.

Ultra-Modern And Tricky Bathing Suits Parade The Sands At Southern Resorts

Miami Beach, Fla. —(AP)—Nov-ely back and trunks mark the new day in bathing suit costumes for southern beach wear this winter.

From square "decoteage" backs to highly abbreviated bloomer trunks, this year's tank suits for the resort style seeker carry a further departure from the styles of the past.

One fashionable garment is of white wool, with shoulder straps giving accent through bright colors — red, yellow and brown.

Another "water-trook" has a smart cross-back with narrow supporting straps and a high waist line, with a crystal ring belt buckle as a novelty.

Then there is the nubby-like-wise nobby-bathing suit. The creation, of sponge, is in wool with intermingling colors. It fits the body closely but is of elastic nature.

France Offers New Suit
From the beaches of France comes the "maillot"—pronounced "ma-lay"—tank suit for the discerning miss. Style displays show the maillot of new wide wale rib bordered in white.

One of the latest, and also the scantiest, of fashionable suits is the full-length brassiere model.

While last winter's styles included a suggested brassiere-and-trunk effect, with a thin strip connecting the two pieces, the 1932 dictate is for a simple, snugly-fitting two-piece suit of brassiere and trunks.

The suits are popular in bright colors and many are of the new wide wale knit.

Another chic beach outfit is the combination tank and beach suit. A detachable skirt, short and flared, lends a stril / x fashion for beach or boardwalk. With the ties loosened and the skirt removed the suit is for swimming.

Bandanna Jackets Popular
Brightly colored bandannas were entirely a masculine accessory years ago, but after an intermediary stage in the role of informal headress, they now appear on the beaches in jacket form.

Worn with mannish pajama trousers, the bandanna jacket makes a complete and comfortable costume with ample protection in the front and maximum exposure of the back, the latter feature complying with latest style edicts.

Linen is fashionable again this year for kunging costumes. One model which has a bright red jacket with large white buttons almost to the throat, is cut to fit the waistline loosely, while the wide white linen trousers contrast with the brilliant color.

with the green and red of the holiday colors being emphasized in the menu, with the dessert being especially attractive, the ices being frozen in the form of wedding bells.

The entire afternoon was one of exceptional pleasure to all attending. Miss Carrie Doctor of Forreston was an out of town guest.

Mrs. Carr Celebrates Her 73rd Birthday

New Rochelle, N. Y., Jan. 9.—(UP)—Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt on her seventy-third birthday today sent a message to the world. It was:

"Cheer up!"
"We may be having hard times, but they won't last forever," she declared. "I am old enough to have lived through other depressions just as bad as this one. We'll come out of this one all right—as we always have before."

"That will be when everybody works. There is nothing like work to make people happy. The end of the human race is certainly not yet."

Mrs. Carr sent a telegram of congratulation today to her cousin, Mrs. Caroline Brandish of Ottawa, Ill.

"It is her birthday, too," she explained. "She is 92—and that makes me feel young."

MRS. CHARLES RUSSELL.

Mrs. Charles Russell, whose term as a member of the hospital board has expired, has given sixteen years of very valuable service to the Katherine Shaw Bethel Hospital. She served a number of years as president of the board and for the past ten years has been the secretary and treasurer, upon whom falls a great amount of detail work, including book-keeping, paying bills, etc., that required a great amount of her energy and time. Her work was always splendidly performed. Mrs. Russell is entitled to a vote of thanks for her public service for many years past.

PRICE OF THE "FIX".

The sad plight of Chicago, which has been slipping nearer and nearer to the edge of downright bankruptcy, ought to be a final warning, a last lesson for the American people, about the evils of municipal party politics.

When Judge Jarecki the other day threw out the tax assessment rolls of 1928 and 1929 with the remark that the evidence of fraud blew into his court "like a blizzard," he added the final bit of evidence to prove that partisan politics can be altogether too expensive a luxury for a modern city.

The present government of Chicago is doing all that it can do to remedy matters. It is acting wisely and with energy. But most of the damage has been done.

Chicago today is paying the price for years of acquiescence in rule by unscrupulous politicians. And what makes the affair of nation-wide interest is the fact that Chicago simply magnifies conditions that are present in nearly every American city. Chicago has done what most of the rest of us have done—only on a bigger scale.

Political rule is almost inseparable from the fix. The fix is in evidence in almost every department of most city governments. If you know the right man you can get a traffic ticket taken care of, you can get out of duty, you can get this, that or the other little favor; and if your friend is influential enough, you can get your real estate assessment arranged as you would like to have it arranged.

That is what happened in Chicago. Tax assessment rolls were fixed and fixed and fixed, year after year—until, finally, the courts threw them out and ordered the job done over again. Politics interfered with the new assessment, and now that has been thrown out likewise; and Chicago's finances are in a dire plight.

There isn't anything surprising in all of this. Politics played fast and loose with Chicago's city government, and Chicago today is paying the price. There is a tremendous lesson in the whole business for other cities.

VANISHING EMPIRES.

Making an excavation in the heart of London for a new office building, British workmen the other day came upon some relics of the very distant past—relics of the day when London was an outpost of the British empire, a provincial garrison on a distant island.

They found a number of interesting things; old Roman tools, lamps, bits of broken pottery, pilings that marked the first of London river's wharves, and so on. Their finds, archaeologists say, date back to the first century of the Christian era.

Of course, the London subsoil is full of such things, and there isn't anything especially new or startling about this latest find. But the whole business stimulates the imagination, somehow. It makes ancient history seem real and it gives us an eerie glimpse into the future.

When those relics were first deposited there, Rome was what London is today; the capital of a far-flung empire, filled with tradesmen, administrators, shippers and "empire builders." Young Romans, one imagines, sailed for administrative posts in the British isles much as young Englishmen, half a century ago, sailed for similar jobs in India. They felt that they were going to the very ends of the earth, and the placid river Thames—as Conrad points out in his "Heart of Darkness"—must have seemed as mysterious and subtly hostile as the Congo seemed to the roving young Englishmen of the last century.

It is easier to make Roman civilization seem real by drawing that parallel. The imperialism of the Caesars was, after all, very like that of Queen Victoria's day. There were far-off colonies to be developed, and England, which was to have colonies of its own some day, was a raw and wild land that needed cultivation.

And all of this makes one look ahead. Rome's empire has vanished, centuries since, and her colonies have grown to ripe maturity. Will the empires of today, sometime, follow suit? Will English relics, dug up in Delhi—or American relics, dug up in Manila—set antiquarian memories adrift?

To—with fame and fortune! I wish I was back in Brooklyn with the gang.—Clara Bow.

There are weaknesses in our economic system.—Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley.

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

The big grasshopper's legs were long and it looked very big and strong. As Carpy sat upon its back the others laughed in glee. The way Tintin hop up in the air gave little Carpy quite a scare. "Hang on real tight," cried Scouty, "and you're safe as you can be."

"Oh, do you think so," Carpy said. "If you're so brave, just come ahead and try to ride him to a while. I'll bet you'll take a flop. I'll try to steer him back to you. It may be mighty hard to do." But Mister Hopper was real kind. He soon came to a stop.

Then Scouty said, "I'll show you how to ride him right. Just watch me, now." He then climbed on the hopper's back and shouted, "All right, jump!" Away he went, out through the air. The way that Scouty stuck was rare. The hopper made one long, last jump and landed with a thump.

"I must admit that you are great," said Carpy. "But, if you will wait, I'll try the riding stunt again, to prove I'm also good. This time, before we leave the ground, I'll wrap my little feet around the hopper's back and then I'll ride as real good riders should."

As last he cried, "Well, I'm all set and now a real treat you will get. Get going, Mister Hopper Show the lads I'm safe and sound." But Carpy wrapped his feet too tight and Mister Hopper got a fright. He flopped a bit and Carpy shortly landed on the ground.

The others rushed up to his side. "Oh, are you hurt?" wee Duncy cried. He then helped Carpy to sit up. His face was stinned a bit. Kind Scouty was the next to speak. "Well, rub soft flowers upon your cheek," said he. "That is the only way I know of helping it."

(The giant puts the Tintins back to work in the next story.)

FINLAND'S INDEPENDENCE

On Jan. 9, 1918, the Russian Soviet government officially recognized the independence of Finland.

Finland has proclaimed its independence Dec. 7, 1917, ending a union with Russia that had started in 1809.

Sweden was the first country to recognize the new republic. France, Norway, Denmark and Germany followed.

On Jan. 9 the Central Executive Committee of the Soviets unanimously accepted the recognition of Finland's independence. The crimson banner with the yellow lion of Finland surrounded by nine white roses became the national flag of this full-fledged, internationally recognized state.

Dire predictions were made for the future of Finland as an independent state.

No farm home seems complete without an almanac, and no farmer's almanac is quite complete without a series of weather predictions. The farmer's desire for foreknowledge of the weather is as old as agriculture itself.

Unfortunately this demand can be satisfied in only a limited way by accurate scientific methods, and the almanac maker either employs some nonsensical process of prediction based on the moon, stars or what not, or simply sets down whatever his imagination suggests.

Almanac weather predictions are worthless, but they have acquired a considerable reputation. The reason is twofold: In the first place we live in a very changeable climate, and almost any prediction that is not absolutely out of keeping with the season—such, for example, as the announcement of a snowstorm in August, or a hot wave in February—is pretty sure to be verified within a few days before or after such a period, in which case the slight error in time is regarded indulgently by the public in the second place, the successful predictions, which, as just explained, must be numerous, produce a more lasting impression than those that are unsuccessful.

The only possible check upon self-deception in this respect is to write down day by day the prediction and the actual weather and at the end of a month or a year to count the number of successes. This process is earnestly recommended to persons who still retain more or less faith in the almanacs.

It might be well enough to leave in the almanacs the weather forecasts, provided every almanac maker would have the grace to append to his pages the following frank avowal, which appeared in Gabriel Frende's Almanack and Prognostication for 1899:

"Thou hast my guess at daily weather. Here present in thy view. My credit shall not lie thereon. That every word is true; Yet some to please I thought it best To shew my mynde among the reste."

Tomorrow: "The year without a summer."

OBITUARY
Ida Mae Trostle, daughter of Levi and Isabelle Trostle was born in Taylor township, Ogle Co., Ill., on September 11 1861. At the age of 18 years she was united with the Church of the Brethren and lived a faithful and consistent Christian life until the time of her death.

On December 25 1883, she was united in marriage to Elmer W. Price of Mt. Morris, Ill. To this union was born one son, Earl E. After residing fourteen years in Reno County Kansas, on account of her husband's failing health they moved to Franklin Grove, Ill., where after twelve years of physical suffering her husband preceded her in death.

On October 3 1916, she was united in marriage to Elder Isaac Frantz, who after a few years of declining health, passed away December 19, 1925.

After a period of faltering health of several years duration and of a critical illness of about two weeks, she expired at the home of her sister, Mrs. J. E. Wolf of Franklin Grove having attained the age of 70 years, 3 months and 23 days. She is survived by one son Earl E. of Rockford, Ill., one sister Mrs. J. E. Wolf and one brother I. S. Trostle both of Franklin Grove.

Mrs. Frantz was of a cheerful disposition and patiently and willingly administered to her invalid husband for long periods of years. She enjoyed her Christian activities and for several years accompanied Rev. Frantz in evangelistic work throughout several states. "Servant of God well done."

Thy glorious warfare's passed, The battle's fought, the race is won And thou are crowned at last. Let faith exalt her joyful voice, And now in triumph sing: Oh, grave, where is thy victory? And death where is thy sting? Funeral services were held in the Brethren church Wednesday afternoon, conducted by Rev. O. D. Buck, assisted by Rev. C. W. Lahman. Interment was made in the Emmert cemetery, west of town.

Community Achievement
1. Community Flower Garden in a vacant lot bordering Main Street and the railroad right of way. Later the lot was bought by the Club and presented to the village, to be used as a park. Lanescape and planted by the Club, mowed by the village. R. R. cooperating in keeping the right-of-way cared for. The swings, benches, etc. furnished and cared for by the Club, also a Community Christmas tree planted. One of our most satisfactory community projects, for the vacant lot which had become an eye-sore and now has been converted into a beauty spot for the enjoyment of all passers-by, as well as a play-ground for children, and after a resting place for the weary.

2. "Clean up Week" in the spring the Club and the Town Board co-operating. Trucks were employed to haul off the junk.

3. Co-operated with the Old Soldiers and Sailors re-union committee, to furnish lodging and breakfast for those attending at the camp-grounds.

2. Iris display in store windows, resulting later in a regular recurring "Iris Show" with constantly increasing interest in this beautiful flower, and especially in named varieties. Nearly every yard now contains one or more clumps of Iris and many have large plantings and add to them each year some of the newer and choice varieties. The community Iris show is now held about June 1st, of every alternate year. The other year we have a "Summer Garden Show" with later flowers and vegetables.

At roll call, each member gave some interesting fact concerning her contribution. At the close of the afternoon, a vote was taken to determine which was the most interesting booth, with a small token of appreciation tendered to the winner. Another part of the program was a talk on "Home Life in India" by one of our home girls, a returned missionary from that far distant country. She showed costumes of the Indian women and manner of wearing them, and described the customs of the people in their homes. This was one of our best club programs.

7. At another program given by the Community Service Department each member attending furnished a short, original article, "Why I Love My Home Town." Many different phases of the subject were brought out and all felt a deeper appreciation of the old home town as a result of the program.

Scientifically Purer..

Something every smoker wants to know!

• Absolutely pure... that's what you expect in the things you eat and drink... and in the cigarettes you smoke.

"Chesterfields are as pure as the water you drink," a noted scientist writes. There's no way to make a purer cigarette. Starting with tobaccos... the ripest, finest, purest leaf that grows is selected for Chesterfields. Mild to start with... Cross-Blending makes it milder still. Then it's wrapped in paper that is so pure it burns without any taste or odor.

The phrase "Scientifically Purer" is entirely justified. By our use of a highly scientific process which was worked out by Dr. Paul Gross, the Head Chemist of our Research Department, Chesterfield reaches a state of purity unmatched, to our knowledge, by any other cigarette.

In addition, scientists check every ingredient, every method. Even the factory air is washed, and changed every 4½ minutes. More purity!

Notice, too, the clean, white, attractive package... moisture-proof. Chesterfields come to you as good and as pure as they're made. Good... they've got to be good! Change to Chesterfields and see.

A WONDERFUL NEW RADIO PROGRAM!

Tonight... at 10:30... Chesterfield's Radio Program. Light a Chesterfield... lean back... and relax while Nat Shilkret's Orchestra and Alex Gray, soloist, charm away your cares. It's on the entire Columbia Network... broadcast from coast to coast... every night except Sunday. And the hour's 10:30 E. S. T.

Sidelights In News In Capital Of United States

(By The United Press)

Washington, Jan. 9.—Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes is increasingly becoming the center of concern for his numerous friends about the Supreme Court.

The aged jurist—celebrated his 90th birthday last spring—appears to show signs of the ravages of time. Twice since returning to Washington last October he has suffered severe attacks of lumbago. One kept him away from court for a week.

Now when the clocks strike the hour of noon he is the center of attention as he assumes the place on the bench he has occupied for 30 years. The once sturdy form is more stooped than usual as he follows Chief Justice Hughes into the courtroom. He moves more slowly and sometimes stretches out a hand to some convenient piece of furniture to assist him on his way.

Occasionally a clerk will help him up the steps leading to the rostrum. Page boys assist him into his chair with increasing solicitude.

But when he reads an opinion or questions a lawyer there is no sign that the powerful brain behind the bushy white eyebrows is not functioning just as certainly as ever. Even then it is sometimes hampered by voice and eyesight as he reads aloud.

He enjoys riding in the comfortable, unpretentious blue automobile and his good friend Justice Brandeis hire together. They come to the Capitol together and leave together. Holmes is assisted out of the car as he arrives at his old red brick home in what is now downtown Washington. But he frequently has a pleasant and a laugh to exchange with those who are helping him.

When court adjourns he waits until his colleagues have left the bench and then takes his time following them. Sometimes Brandeis waits to help him.

After the session they may be seen leaving the capitol, this Damon and Pythias of the bench. Mr. Holmes holding to Brandeis' arm. Brandeis walking slowly and very patiently beside him.

AWAY

I cannot say, and I will not say That he is dead—he is just away.

With a cheery smile and a wave of the hand, As he wandered into an unknown land,

And left us dreaming how very fair It needs must be, since he lingers there.

And you,—O you, who the wildest yearn For the old time step and the glad return—

Think of him faring on, as dear In the love of these as the love of here.

Mild and gentle, as he was brave— When the sweetest love of his life he gave.

To simple things; where the violets grew Pure as the eyes they were likened to,

The touches of his hands have strayed As reverently as his lips have prayed!

When the little brown thrush that harshly chirred Was dear to him as the mocking-bird.

As he pined as much as a man in pain, A writhing honey-bee wet with rain.

Think of him still as the same I say, He is not dead, he is just away.

Daily Health Talk

COELIAC DISEASE

Coeliac Disease is a comparatively rare condition, but it's gravity warrants common knowledge of its nature.

It is seen almost entirely in children, appearing to be more common among girls, and most frequently appears in the second year of life, though infants as young as eight months and children over three have been known to be affected.

The disease affects the digestive system, and in consequence the entire constitution.

The afflicted child suffers a chronic looseness of bowels, marked muscular weakness and wasting.

The stools are characteristic. They are not watery, but loose. Their consistency and appearance are that of oatmeal.

They are copious in quantity, offensive in odor, and full of mucus. The wasting process may not be marked, but the child is not robust. Its abdomen is likely to be markedly prominent and its musculature flabby.

As time passes, the child grows older, but not bigger.

Its physical development appears arrested, though it may show precocious mental and emotional traits.

Thirst is a prominent feature in the disease, due, no doubt, to the large loss of body fluids in the stools. The cause of the disease is unknown. It may be due to dietary errors, though bacterial infections are suspected. Probably it is due to a combination of forces.

Treatment is mainly along dietary lines.

The child's intolerance for certain common foods such as raw milk, bread, fruits and vegetables must be studied and adequate substitutes or modified forms of the foods must be found.

Such treatment of necessity calls for full and patient cooperation between physician and parents.

The condition is curable, but the treatment is long drawn out.

Children successfully treated may and frequently do "catch up" in their physical development.

Youths Repudiate Murder Confession

Gallipolis, O., Jan. 8.—(AP)—Two youths, Albert Ramer and Elsworth Mowyer, who Tuesday told Sheriff Charles Swanson they burned a father and his seven children to death in a log cabin near here repudiated their confession today.

The two boys previously had described in detail how they went to the log house of James White, 59, during darkness and set the building afire after fastening the doors and windows. They said they were revengeful against White, who had beaten Ramer in a fight.

Shortly before they were scheduled to be arraigned this morning the youths told the sheriff and Prosecutor Harry M. Miller the entire story was a hoax and denied they had anything to do with cremating White and seven of his eight children.

The prosecutor said the boys probably would not be arraigned today as a result of retracting their confessions. Miller added, however, the charges of first degree murder had not been withdrawn against the pair.

RESCUED FROM SNOW

Los Angeles, Jan. 9.—(UP)—Twenty persons, including several school children who had been marooned in the Mono basin since Christmas Day by heavy snows, fought their way through snow drifts to civilization today.

The group left the June lake district late yesterday, and arrived at Bishop, 72 miles away, today. Travel was exceedingly slow because of the necessity of pushing through fresh drifts.

J. M. Custin, a sailor, whose feet were frozen from exposure in an automobile, was one of those taken out by truck.

Some 65 residents on the other side of June lake, however, still are snowed in.

UNCONSCIOUS IN RING

Sheffield, England, —(UP)—Two brothers, Austen and Edgar Brown facing each other in a boxing contest here dealt out such punishment that when the referee stopped the fight in the sixth round both were unconscious on the floor of the ring.

DIXON TRIUMPHS IN DOULBE BILL WITH ROCHELLE

Local High School Cagers End Two-Game Losing Streak

By DON HILLIKER
Ending a two-game losing streak the Dixon high school basketball team came through to a double win at Rochelle last night in the first conference games. The heavies battled through one overtime period before Belows sank the winning points to make the count 12-10. Flanagan dropped in two free throws with ten seconds to play to win the B team game 9-8.

The main event was one of the fastest, roughest and most exciting games of the season. As no time did more than four points separate the two outfits. Rochelle hopped off with two baskets but this was the only period in which the hosts enjoyed the lead. Both teams displayed nice teamwork with poor passing being the most outstanding fault.

In the scoring column Belows led with two baskets and two free shots. Berve had five and Strong four to be next in line. Fordham and McReynolds did good work at their guard positions, not allowing the Rochelle forwards to score a basket. Henry's contribution was a nice shot from the free throw mark and fine defensive play.

The game started in a rush for Rochelle. A minute was gone Berve dribbled around Strong for the first score. Immediately following Berve again scored on a tip-in shot. When Belows missed a free throw Strong tossed the ball through for two points. The quarter ended 4-2. Strong tied it on an overhead shot from the side. Belows made a short one for a 6-4 lead. Berve fouled Belows and the free throw was good. Wirtick dropped in his free toss for the half's score of 7-5. At the start of the third period Heath shot from mid-floor and was successful. Henry duplicated with a shot from about the free throw line. Belows sank a free shot on Daub's foul. Daub passed in to Berve. Berve returned the ball. Daub dribbled once and went high on the backboard to sink the shot. This left the score 10-9 in Dixon's favor and it remained so until the middle of the final quarter. Berve, who, incidentally, missed four of five shots, made a grating heave to tie it 10-10. The regulation time ended thus. After two minutes of rest the teams started in the three-minute overtime play. Dixon took the tip-off but were unable to score. A number of jumps were called with Dixon again getting the ball. McReynolds dribbled down and passed to Belows on the side about twenty feet out. Belows shot and the ball caromed off the board through the net for two more points. Rochelle had the ball the remaining minute and a half but could not score.

Dixon showed improvement from the free throw line, making two of six free shots as compared to sinking one out of eleven tosses against West Chicago. Rochelle missed seven of nine free throws.

E TEAM

The preliminary game contained just as much excitement as did the overtime tussle. Dixon led 6-3 at the start of the fourth quarter. Baskets by Walters and Fee made it 7-6 in Rochelle's favor. Underwood tied it on a free throw. Gross gave Rochelle the lead 8-7 on his free shot. The ten seconds to play Walters was called for fouling Flanagan when the latter attempted to shoot. Showing a cool head and fine ability "Red" stepped up and dropped in two free throws to win the game 9-8.

BRIDGE "BATTLE OF CENTURY" IS ENDED LAST EVE

Culbertson's Won But the Contest Proved Almost Nothing

New York, Jan. 8.—(AP)—Both Mr. and Mrs. Ely Culbertson were at the top of the bridge world today.

The great Lenz-Culbertson test of rival systems of contract bridge ended last night with Culbertson's side 8,980 points ahead.

In nineteen nights and one afternoon, 150 rubbers and 879 hands, Culbertson with one or another of five partners won 77 rubbers and 122,925 points, as compared with 73 rubbers and 113,945 points for Sidney S. Lenz and two partners.

Mrs. Culbertson, who had entered the night's play with a plus of only 155 points for the 82 rubbers she had played, finished with a lead of 365 points for 88 rubbers.

Lenz and Commander Winfield Liggett, N. R., won three of the six final rubbers and failed to take full advantage of their possibilities. Liggett, who entered the match when Oswald Jacoby quit as Lenz's partner because of a dispute over psychic bids and misplays, finished 7-860 points ahead for the 47 rubbers in which he took part.

After the match Lenz commented that the cards spoke for themselves and that there was little difference in the systems. Culbertson said Lenz was a minor factor and that proper principles were the dominant factors. Liggett said the match proved nothing.

So far as relative value of cards is concerned statistics tabulated by Culbertson's staff were as follows:

Honor tricks
.....	3,649 3,648
No trump count.....	18,091 17,896
The no trump count is that assigning a value of four to an ace, three to a king, two a queen and one to a jack.

Mrs. Culbertson's bids and playing were the great factors in the final session.

One of her brilliant plays was on hand 867 when she trumped a trick which her husband might otherwise have taken, it enabled Lenz to set one in a contract for three spades.

The hand:

Lenz (north)	Mrs. Culbertson (East)
S-K Q J 7	S-10 9 2
H-8 3	H-Q J 6 5 2
D-9 8 7 3 2	D-6 4
C-A J	C-Q 10 4

Culbertson (West) S-6 4 H-A 7 4 D-K Q J C-K 9 8 5 3

Liggett (South, dealer) S-A 8 5 3 H-K 10 9 D-A 10 5 C-7 6 2

The bidding: South pass, west one club; north one spade; east pass; south three spades; all pass. Mrs. Culbertson led the queen of clubs.

In winning the bridge "battle of a century", Culbertson added $9,200 to the plus side of his bets, but he has agreed to pay it all to charity.

The largest bet he made was with Sidney Lenz, vanquished sponsor of the "official" system—$5,000 to $1,000. The other bets and the amounts involved were:

$1,000 to $500—Jacoby.
$500 to $250—Jacoby.
$200 to $100—Jacoby.
$1,000 to $500—Antoine Lefebvre, San Francisco.
$500 to $250—F. E. Schluter, New York.

$500 to $100—Alexander Marshall.
$500 to $250—H. A. Oyst.
$300 to $100—Chico Marx.
$9,200 to $3,150—Total.

The Dodgers still are trying to land Hack Wilson, but are said to be unwilling to part with either Babe Herman or Dazzy Vance to get him.

Bill McKechnie has made a drastic change in the infield of his Boston Braves, who fell apart after making a great start last season. He drafted Art Shires, leading hitter of the American Association, to play first base and brought Fritz Knitke from Seattle to hold down third. Oscar Eckhardt, who led the Coast League batters with a mark of 369, was acquired to add punch to the outfield.

Pittsburgh, Philadelphia and Cincinnati appear to have added little strength except for new manager, George Gibson the Pirates show practically no changes.

The title team composed of members of Company A of this city, defeated a selected team from the Harmon rifle club Thursday evening on the Army range. The Harmon team was headed by Captain Schoaf and the scores were as follows:

SKYSCRAPER PRISON WILL BE "SCHOOL" FOR WOMEN, WITH FIRST OFFENDERS APART FROM OTHERS

Noted Official to Head Institution

BY JULIA BLANSHARD
NEA Service Writer
New York — "A jail should be a type of school."
"Not only should it teach its inmates how to return to their communities better fitted to be useful citizens. Upon their release, it should strive to get them jobs, with the cooperation of community agencies, so that they can have the chance at self-respect which comes from honest self-support."
That is the modern ideal behind the most modern and best-equipped penal institution for women in the world, the new $2,000,000 skyscraper House of Detention for Women, which will open here the last of this month.

Miss Ruth Collins America's outstandingly successful woman prison administrator, has been secured as superintendent.
Intelligent, sympathetic but not the least sentimental, sensitive to the human problems before her but firm and driving when it comes to organizing and managing the lives of those in her care to their own best advantage, she seems eminently well fitted for this the hardest task in some ways, ever undertaken by a woman penal supervisor.

Ever since graduating from the University of Wisconsin all of Miss Collins' working experience seems to have pointed up to this responsible job.

Starting right here in New York as factory inspector, her first job of any social import, she learned much of the working conditions that make for underprivileged citizens. From that work she went into social work, in the department dealing with family relief cases. Here she saw some of the other side of the prison problem, the difficulties of families left by husbands and fathers who have felt the hand of the law.

Next she went into children's work, this time out in Kansas City and later, in Chicago, working for the juvenile Protective Association. During this period, living at Hull House as she did, her knowledge of the problems of delinquency and what to do to solve them, ripened. From this position, she seemed the logical person for the Detroit Children's Aid, where they needed an expert, so she left Chicago for Detroit. There, for three years, she worked for the Children's Aid, being promoted from that position to take charge of the Women's Division, Detroit House of Correction, and to do social work for the whole institution.

There she made such a national reputation for herself, in her wise, constructive work, that she was called to Washington, D. C., to head the Social Service Division of the Department of Justice. This organization oversees all penal institutions in the whole country, and Miss Collins had a staff of 18 men and one woman. In this capacity, she traveled through many states, studying the various penal institutions, speaking in many cities, completing her already extensive knowledge of the best and most modern ideas of penology and prison administration. From this important Washington post, she has come back to New York where she started.

"We want to make a clearing house of this marvelous new institution," she told me. "We think it is the biggest opportunity yet afforded for the social underprivileged."

"The construction of the House of Detention is perfect. It allows for the segregation of the various types of offenders in four distinct separate wings. Young girls, first offenders, will be entirely segregated from hardened ones. Those who need hospitalization will be in an entirely different part of the institution housed in two floors built for hospital service, and will be given adequate medical and nursing care."

Miss Ruth Collins . . . and New York's new House of Detention . . . which she will conduct as a "school for citizenship."

There are even three separate kitchens, to keep the segregation perfect. "We will get away as much as possible from regimentation. There are five different types of costumes for the women, the demoralizing harsh prison underclothing and dresses will be replaced by practical but more pleasant things. Each woman will have a small room of her own and we feel that in learning to keep that room neat and clean, an inmate is getting valuable experience for her whole life outside. Domestic Work Encouraged

"There will be sewing and domestic work and organized recreation, such as basketball, on the roof gymnasium. Entirely separated from this is a convalescent hospital. Connected with the institution is a competent staff of physicians and nurses. Probably the best part of the whole plan is the thorough going-over every woman will get, a thorough medical and psychiatric examination. This will give us an analysis of every individual. The plan is to discover just what influences have produced their particular problems and to correct everything possible. A certain number of inmates have abnormalities which should be dealt with as such. Aside from these, the rest can and should be made useful citizens. "There is space for 450 women in the House of Detention. The majority of them are moral offenders, most of whom have short terms. The longest term will be three years.

direct their activities. It was practically a super-human effort for him to direct and he simply didn't have the strength to announce or sing but upholding the best traditions of his profession he insisted that "the show must go on" despite his handicaps.

NEW YORK TO BE FETED ON "PARADE OF STATES"
Honor will be done New York state and tribute will be paid the Automobile Show which will then be under way in New York City during the Parade of States program over an NBC-WEAF network on Monday at 8:30 P. M., central standard time.

will be presented for the first time over the air by Erno Repee and his orchestra.

"My Merry Oldsmobile," song dating way back to the first horseless carriages, will be the appropriate air in tribute to the Auto Show, while Charles Webster will read Bruce Barton's "Tribute to New York."

Stations associated with NBC in the midwest through which the program may be heard are WENR WOC.

NO ONE TO SEE "SKIPPI" CHARACTERS BEFORE MIKE
A real "mystery" program will make its appearance on the air on Monday, January 11, when "Skippi," beloved cartoon, book and movie character, makes his debut on an NBC-WEAF network with two performances each day except Sunday. Just how much of a mystery the program is may be realized when it is understood that no one—not even officials of NBC nor the clients who

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

EDSON R. WAITE

That there is nothing that so appeals to the buying public as good advertising.
The greatest opportunity for expanding a business is through the printed page.
It teaches the buyer to do business with the firm that advertises.
Many successful business concerns use a friendly style in their advertising—a sort of friendly, chatty way of telling the public about their business and what they have to offer.
Business concerns that are well advertised are known as leaders in their line of business.
They keep the public thinking and talking about their business.
That is why their goods and service are always growing in popularity.

There is no better indication of the public's regard for advertised goods than the reputation that manufacturers of quality and advertised goods have.
